

Chiropractic COVID-19 Global Impact Survey: Get ready to participate!

Members of the Danish Chiropractors' Association will soon be invited to participate in an international survey of chiropractors being conducted across 5 continents, including Australia, Canada, Denmark, Hong Kong (China), Sweden, United Kingdom and the United States.

Coronavirus (COVID-19) is a highly transmissible disease with approximately 30 million confirmed cases and 1 million related deaths worldwide. While Danish chiropractors have been essential healthcare workers addressing neuromusculoskeletal disorders during this challenging time, the impact and response by Canadian chiropractors to the pandemic is under researched.

With over 100,000 practising chiropractors worldwide, this is the first international-based study that seeks to provide important insights into the impacts and changes to the healthcare delivered by chiropractors during COVID-19. Your participation will give you the chance to share your own experience and contribute new knowledge about the personal and professional impact of this historic pandemic.

This research project is being conducted by an international team of chiropractic researchers including researchers from here in Denmark. Your participation may contribute towards vital knowledge needed to help inform public health procedures within chiropractic settings that could benefit both you and your community.

You will soon receive an email with a link to the online survey via the Danish Chiropractors' Association who supports practitioner participation in this study. If you are interested in more information, please send an email to the Danish representative on the study research team, Dr Melker Johansson, msjohansson@health.sdu.dk

Thank you in advance for your valued participation in this important upcoming Global COVID-19 study
